The claim, and the check

Arithmetic verified. Inputs tested against published prices, September 2026.

YOUR CLAIM

$600,000

40 campaigns at $15,000 net each.

Arithmetic exact. The fee base is wrong.

WHAT THE RESEARCH SAYS

5.0× overstated

The industry fee is 10-25% OF CAMPAIGN BUDGET. A $15,000 campaign nets you about $3,000 — so 40 campaigns is $120,000, not $600,000.

What the market actually pays

[V] = verified against a cited public source · [E] estimated · [A] assumed

1	Nano creators	$20-100/post	[V]
2	Micro creators	$100-5,000	[V]
3	Macro creators	$5,000-10,000+	[V]
4	Luxury hospitality campaign budgets	$5,000-50,000+	[V]
5	Management fee	10-25% of budget	[V]

THE BINDING CONSTRAINT

To net $15,000 per campaign
you need a $75,000 campaign.

That is top-tier DMO and luxury-brand money. Running 40 of them a year is a staffed agency, not a side line — and agency revenue does not transfer to an acquirer.

The model

What has to be true

Three conditions. If any fails, the path does not deliver.

Win $75,000 campaign budgets

Or accept ~$3,000 net per campaign at realistic sizes.

Staff an agency

25 hours per campaign, 40 campaigns, plus pitching.

Accept low margin and zero compounding

The opposite of what the month-24 exit thesis needs.

VERDICT

Cut it — and keep the creators.

Your own plan already proposes paying creators $1–2 per activated signup, as Mindtrip does.

That turns the same relationships into an acquisition channel feeding Path 7 — building the asset instead of renting out your time.
